Field of the Invention The present invention relates generally to a liquid crystal display device, and more particularly to a liquid crystal display device suitable for using a light source of lower power. 2. Description of the Related Art Generally, a liquid crystal display device is referred to as a flat panel display device, which is light, thin, and low power and can also provide a large-sized screen compared to a cathode ray tube. Accordingly, the liquid crystal display device is widely used. The liquid crystal display device includes a liquid crystal display panel in which a liquid crystal layer is held between a first substrate and a second substrate. Pixel electrodes are provided on the first substrate in the form of a matrix. The pixel electrode is connected to a thin film transistor, for example, which switches on and off a data line and a scan line. Then, a drive signal is applied to the pixel electrode through the thin film transistor. In this case, a common electrode is formed on the second substrate opposed to the first substrate. A drive signal is applied to the common electrode to drive the liquid crystal layer. The above-mentioned liquid crystal display panel has a source and a drain formed near the outside of the drive circuit in the liquid crystal display panel. Drive power is supplied to the source or the drain through wirings. The wirings are arranged on the first substrate, for example, on the side of the pixel region. This causes unnecessary power consumption, because the drive power supplied through the wirings is not used in the inside of the drive circuit.Chotila (Vidhan Sabha constituency) Chotila assembly constituency (□□□□◆)
