Gatsby is frustrated by her pursuit of a career in New York City, which leads him to devise a plan to enrich himself by faking his own death and collecting his fortune in the process. Driven by his desire to build the ideal American dream place for himself and Daisy, Gatsby embarks on a series of events that ensues various people and events: the death of his mentor and friend Dan Cody; his planned liaison with Daisy; his discovery of her affair with Dan; his friendship with Nick Carraway, a Princeton student working as a newspaper reporter.
