Fog. With a distributed system, the data becomes more distributed, and it will be harder to access. It's great for scale. But slower and more difficult to access data? That's a tradeoff I would need to make. There's a tradeoff for everything. ~~~ mynewtb I think you have misinterpreted what I said. How is using large disks not a tradeoff. Surely, it would be a much better tradeoff to access something that is stored on a local device than to have to transfer it across the network? ~~~ hadoukenio Don't ask me what I think. I'll answer what you're saying. If what you're saying is that you can access something on a
